This was written by Mindy's parents' shortly after she passed away. You finally have your license; all your studying is done. It took 16 years to get here, now your 17, ready for some fun. You listened to the lectures, to the speeches and the words. We tell you to drive safely, please be careful and alert. The first year is the hardest, they said 1 in 4 will crash, but you don't have to worry, you were first in your class. We thought it would never happen. I hope your friends all see, it's always someone else that could never happen to me. When you left school that day and headed down the road, we wish you had paid more attention instead of what was on the radio. All you did was change the station; your eyes barely left the road. We don't know how it happened, you simply lost control. Your whole life is over, 17 years is not that long. We wish you had paid more attention; we would still have you here today. Our lives would be so much better, if you wouldn't have looked away,

Love and miss you very much, Mom & Dad
